THE MEMORIAL GATES

Another structure of striking architectural beauty is nearing completion. The Roddick Memorial Gates, donated by Lady Roddick as a fitting tribute to the memory of her late husband, has added a touch of dignity to the campus entrance that is justly a matter of pride to those who observe its effect as they pass to and from lectures daily. As we watch the progress in construction of the gates we are constantly reminded of him whose life and work and service they commemorate.

It is fitting then that we review briefly a few of the many points of interest in the career of one of McGill's illustrious medical men. From the time of his graduation from the Medical School here in 1866, Sir Thomas Roddick was intimately associated with the University for nearly sixty years as demonstrator, professor, dean of the Faculty of Medicine, and in later years as governor. Ten years after winning the Holmes Gold Medal he was made Professor of Clinical Surgery. From the first he was a painstaking, skilful surgeon and he soon became renowned as a teacher. "His love for his work, genial manner and innate kindness of heart endeared him to all his students." Scattered all over the world to-day are hundreds of graduates in medicine who will never forget his simple and impressive methods of teaching. He it was who introduced Lister's antiseptic methods of surgery into Montreal, and from here it spread all over Canada reducing the mortality of operations to a minimum. He organized the surgical department of the Royal Victoria Hospital when it was opened, and was the prime mover in having the Alexandra Hospital for infectious diseases constructed. It was largely due to his efforts and influence that the Dominion Council of Canada was constituted which allows but one portal of entrance to the practice of Medicine throughout the Dominion and permits Canadians to practise in Great Britain. The British Medical Journal says that "in this way he rendered immense service to his profession and did something towards consolidating the British Empire—a cause always dear to his heart—by making the Canadian doctor at home in this country (Britain) and the British doctor at home in Canada." Sir Thomas received honour after honour during his time. He was the first colonial to be made president of the British Medical Association, and in 1914 was honoured by the King for distinguished services to his country and to the medical profession. During his term of office as Dean, the Faculty of Medicine made great strides, and the position which it holds to-day is in no small measure due to his untiring energy and love for his Alma Mater.

The memorial gates now being erected will perpetuate the memory of an eminently useful life. The design has been the result of much care and thought. As they near completion we realize how greatly they will improve the appearance of the campus and exemplify the solid foundations on which the educational system of the University is built. Nor will the structure be entirely ornamental for the west tower is to contain a four-faced clock fitted with Westminster chimes that will ring out the hours of the day.

May the countless students who will pass through the gates in the years to come, always remember Sir Thomas Roddick's invaluable contributions to McGill, and remember also Lady Roddick's liberal donation to our Alma Mater.

CONDENSED COMMENT

Dr. James Beattie Morison is dead. For many years connected with this University as professor of Orthodontia in the Faculty of Dentistry, he had earned for himself the admiration of all students, and of all his conferees. He enjoyed a large practice in the city, for he was a man of proven ability, and one who possessed that rare virtue of making himself liked by everyone who knew him. He distinguished himself in military as well as in civil life. Dr. Morison was attached to the 9th Field Ambulance during the great war and was mentioned in despatches several times. The Professor was only in his 47th year, and death which came after a very brief illness, was a rude shock to a host of admiring friends. As a mark of tribute to a man who was held in the highest regard, all lectures and clinics in the Faculty of Dentistry are cancelled to-day.

CLASS GROUPS

A tentative schedule for the taking of class groups is printed below. Class presidents are requested to confirm the suggested hours by getting in touch with the photograph editor of the Annual AT ONCE at the Union.

A fee of seven dollars ($7.00) will be collected at the time that the group is taken. This covers both the cost of the negative and insertion in the annual (full page). Proofs will be on view at the Annual Board room. Through a special arrangement groups pictures when ordered through the Annual Board, will be obtainable at the reduced rate of ONE DOLLAR. This is a saving of twenty-five cents per copy, over last year. It will be necessary for the class president to remit in advance for the pictures desired, in order that this substantial saving may be effected. The pictures will be taken in front of the respective buildings.

THE CAPITOL

At the Capitol this week we see Gloria Swanson in what is rather a new type of picture for her. Instead of being the usual blonde society dame in décolleté and daring gowns, she appears as an Italian peasant girl but it cannot be said that she adds anything to her fame in this part. Miss Swanson's acting is without reproach but she seems a bit out of place as a bar maid.
Ivan L'Amour, the wrestler, as a strong man in a road show and later as a soldier in the Foreign Legion in Algeria is all that could be asked for. In the leading man's role is Ben Lyon as Marvin, a young American in the Legion, who falls in love with Carmelita (Miss Swanson) who is acting as bar maid, cabaret, and janitor in a tavern in Sid-Bell-Abbes the home of the legion. The part of Boule, a Legionnaire friend of Marvin and a former English Gentleman, is taken to perfection by Norman Trevor.
The home life of the French Legion d'Etrangers is one of the features of the picture and there is just enough action running through the story to make it interesting at all times.
In addition to this program is a special feature in memory of G. Puccini. The Capitol orchestra under direction of G. Azeschini render some selections from Madame Butterfly Puccini's most popular Opera, and Miss J. Scott, who was one of the first to sing in this Opera in America, sang several excerpts.
The usual New Revue was shown and a comedy "Sunday Calm", a rather exaggerated picture of a crowd of kids on Sunday picnic. There was also a dance divertissement by Buloff and Elton, entitled "Colonial Days," assisted by the Capitol Ballet.

Applicant—No, sir. The cashier did that.

THE IMPERIAL

Perhaps one of the best shows which has been at the Imperial this year is now playing "Each artist is a master hand at his own piece and does it as only a master can."
One of the best acts of the evening was "Kelson Bros. and Co." who are comedians of the first order, and also excellent magicians who perform various disappearing tricks to the complete amazement of the audience. These same actors appear in another skit "Billy de Lisle" and exhibit some good juggling with numerous clubs and balls.
Later they go inside the circus and this opportunity is made use of to display the greatest agility and skill on the part of Mr. Donnar who with three tame lions that were not over tamed provides the thrill of the evening by the various tricks he puts them through, and the narrow escapes he himself has.
"Bezazian and White" both are singers of remarkable power and versatility. The latter also is a good tremendous applause for their render-comey player and both received the "Marqueta" a selection from "Il trovatore", and other popular numbers.
The picture itself "The Bandolero" is a moving story of life and love in Spain in the days of the mauladors and the bull-fights. The acting in it is of high quality and some of the scenes such as the bull-fight and the brigand's cave make one imagine that he is really there in Spain looking on.
These acts along with several extras and the news review combine to make this show worth while to see because of the splendid picture presented and the excellent vaudeville entertainment provided.

GUNN TROPHY MEET ON THIS WEEK

Successful Wrestling Practice At Hall Last Night

Possibly owing to the bad weather, last night's wrestling practice was not up to the standard as far as attendance was concerned. Only some eighteen or twenty men turned up in place of the usual forty. The absences were no doubt resting up after the recent very successful Tyro Meet.
Angelo Christie, the Greek heavy weight champion of Canada was present, and gave some hints on amateur wrestling and demonstrated several professional grips with the heavier men. He is much impressed with the excellent progress in McGill's wrestling circle, and expresses his intention of attending as many practices as he possibly can.
Several of McGill's last year wrestlers will again make this appearance in the near future. Of these, Clement and Brien are both Inter-Collegiate Champions, and should prove a valuable addition to the heavy weight class.
The attention of all first year wrestlers and boxers is called to the fact that the success of the Gunn Trophy Meet which is being staged on Thursday and Friday the 11th and 12th of this month, depends entirely on the number of entries handed in to the different Class representatives to-day. This meet has been anxiously looked forward to for some time and should prove popular with the Freshmen as the entries are limited to first year men only.
Till further notice there will be a wrestling practice every Saturday afternoon as well as Monday and Wednesday.

"Well, Pat, do the twins make much noise at night?"
"Praise be to Hygin! Shure each wun cries so loud yez can't hear the ither wan."
"Phwat are thim buckets for on the shill in the hall?" asked one Irishman of another. "Can't ye read? It says on them: 'For Fire Only.' 'Thin why do they put wather in thim?'
"Flee!" she cried.
"D'ye ken, this wireless, Bob, is just like the rowa me an' ma missus hae." How's that, Jock? "Words ower naething, Bob."

Shirley: "Yes, the girls can't get along without us."
Ross: "How do you know?"
Shirley: "Well, don't they always conclude their prayers with 'Ah Men!'"
As Old as the Flood
Mrs. Noah: "Noah, dear, what can be the matter with that camel?"
Noah: "I'll bet he has both fleas on him."
Joe—"She's a movie actress, ain't she?"
Al—"Yes, how'd you guess it?"
Joe—"I thought so by the filmy dress."

LOEW'S

An excellent comedy together with the feature presentation—an adoption from "Mother O'Day" eminently justifies the colour lent to the opening scene outside the main tent.
Marceline leads the fun makers with his humorous gestures and awkward movements and is very ably aided by sported ponies attempting clever tricks, oriental jugglers, acrobats assuming peculiar an exciting postures, and topped off by nearly a dozen snappy chorus girls. Louise Dresser plays the principal feminine role in the picture, which attempts to bring out the fallacy of a mother who delivered to her child's advantage to allow others to be responsible for her child's culture.
The first act of the vaudeville is rather uncommon acrobatic work. An exceptional feat is accomplished when the young lady who is suspended from it holds the weight of her two associates by a cord held in her teeth.
Miss Wright and her troops of six chorus girls rendered some very excellent singing and dancing.
The Oriental jugglers consisting of three Japanese lacked variety but amazing dexterity was shown in barrel juggling which was carried on by means of the feet.
Miss Wright and her musical ponies again staged a very delightful revue characterised by exceptionally good dancing.
The waltzing ponies, performing dogs and bucking mules, offered a very humorous spectacle. The bucking mules took the audience by storm. "Spark Plug" offers maximum resistance to all attempts at mounting. The horses show a careful exacting training.
The appearance of the chorus girls again gives colour to the ending. Marceline funniest clown in spangelland everywhere makes himself conspicuous adding to the general novelty and variety of the programme.

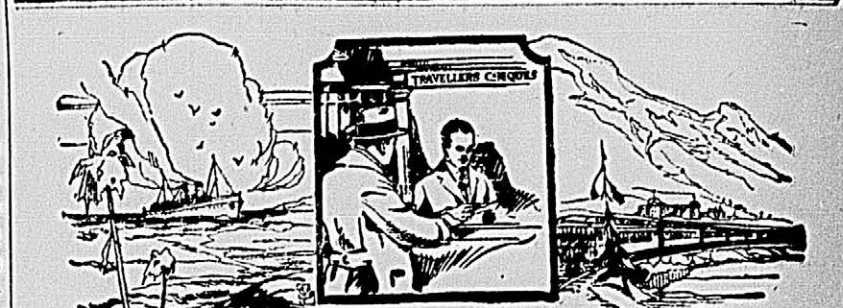

They laugh that win.—Shakespeare.
Knowledge advances by steps, and not by leaps.—Macaulay.
'Tis distance lends enchantment to the view,
